LIEBNECHT, DYING, RELEASED, IS REPORT

Socialist Victim of Kaiser's Wrath Said to Now Be in Private Hospital.

Paris, Aug. 11.-Dr. Karl Liebknecht ocialist leader in the German reich stag, who was arrested in connection with the May Day demonstrations Berlin in 1916, was liberated a fortnight ago by the German government through fear that he might die in prison. He is said to be suffering from tubercu sis, weighing only $4 pounds.

The authenticity of the above seems ertain, says the Tempe' Geneva corexpondent, although the German news sapers in obedience to orders have kept lent regarding it.

"The news," says the correspondent was brought here by a Hollander who nad just arrived from Germany. He says the trades union organizations rought pressure upon the government or the release of Dr. Liebknecht, who is a a private hospital and is not ex to recover, suffering in addion to the lung malady from mental epression, the result of inhuman treatnent while in prison."

Dr. Liebknecht was tried by court nartial in Berlin for "military treason" and sentenced to four years and on nonth in prison. A court martial at Phorn also is said to have sentence Dr. Liebknecht to four and a half years it hard labor, charging that he had attempted to incite the soldiers of the Thorn garrison to disobedience and re

New York Times: The European war as entered its fourth year. What the total mortality of its victims has been may never be known exactly. But there is a definite record of the leaders -important public men of the various actions-who have died in the three

Germany, though not osing any of the members of the royal household, immediately affecting the uccession, has paid a greater toll in the deaths of her military leaders. Chief among these was General von the time of his death he was chief of that he had been guilty of cowardice. he supplementary general staff of the army and directed his attention to the perations against the French. Next may be rated the death of Admiral von Spes, who commanded the Pacific fleet that sunk the British cruisers off Chilan shores on Nov. 1, 1914, when Sir Christopher Craddocia, the English ommander, was drowned. The flagship, Scharnhorst, of you Spee was in turn sunk in a naval battle off the Falkland Islands on Dec. 8, a little nore than a month after the sinking of Craddock's ship. Sir Frederick Sturdle was the commander of the victorious British fleet.

The next to go was Field Marshal Baron Kolmar von der Goltz, who had gone from Belgium to be commander n chief of the First Turkish army, It was he who was instrumental in building the strong Turkish defense on the Gallipoli peninsula, and he frequently predicted that the allied fleet would never be able to force a passage through the Dardanelles. Von der Goltz contracted spotted fever while on duty in Turkey and died at his headquarters on April 19, 1916. He was 72 years old. In the same year, on Dec. 19, Admiral Hugo von Pohl died. Meanwhile, beginning with the year 1914, many minor German princes came to their end, in cluding Prince Wilhelm zu Schvafch-Carolath, Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and Prince Ernst of Lippe; Prince Wohlrad Friedrich zu Waldeck und Pyrmont Prince Otto of Schonburg-Waldenburg, Prince Priedrich of SaxeMeiningen. Prince Henry XLVI of Reuss, and Prince Ernest of Saxe-Meiningen.

Earl Roberts, field marshal of Britain -the famous "Bob"-died at the French | he contracted pneumonia. Among the osses of British naval commanders, the leath of Sir Christopher Craddock, already mentioned, comes first. Of course there have been commanders of lesser spicuous deaths as a direct result of note too numerous to recall.

governor of Paris at the time, that his James Keir Hardie, the English labor nes were in jeopardy. Gallieni colected every motor car in Paris and rushed 80,000 reserve troops to the relef of Manomy. With the Increased forces an attack was made upon von Kluck's flank at Oureg, and the French in the southeast rolled the Germans back to the Marne, where the now famous bottle was fought. Gallieni was later appointed minister of war, but had resign on account of ill health. He ied on May 28, 1916. In looking over the three years' dead of Russia one finds two figures that ice part in the present war. The first was General Anatoli Mikhailovitch Stos sel, who at one time during the Russo Japanese war was the man of the hour Bysa strange twist of fate he was first hailed as the "Hero of Port Arthur." and honored for the part he took in Moltke, who died June 18, 1916. Up to that encounter. Later it was discovered and he was condemned to death for surrendering his forces in order to save his skin. The sentence was commuted but the effects of the disgrace left their mark. He died a broken man on Jan 17, 1915. The second figure is that of Count Sergius Julievitch Witte, who as president of the council of ministers was sent to Portsmouth at the end of the Russo-Japanese war to fix the terms of peace. Although not seeing real active duty at the front in the great war, Witte was known to have been a leader of a group which wanted a sep arate peace with Germany. It was be lieved that he was willing to give up Constantinople as the price of Russia's withdrawal from the war.

Rasputin, the powerful monk at the court of the deposed Czar Nicholas, is the most interesting among the dead of Russia. Maintaining for years ar influence over the life and morals of the royal household and taking an active and treacherous part in the politics of the nation, he became the most dan gerous figure in Russian political life It was left for a prince to assassinate him, and the body of the priest was found in a lake in the first week of last January.

King Carol of Rumania is the only man of prominence who has died in that beset little country In Italy the death of Pope Plus X, was hastened by wor ries over the war situation. He dies on Aug. 20, 1914. Italy lost a great military leader in Lieut. Gen. Bandini commander of the Albanian expedition ary forces, who was drowned on De 11, 1916, when his ship Regina Mar gherita was sunk by the enemy

Among the victims of that outrage most widely known to the American public were Charles Frobtheatrical manager; Charles of his ship was kept secret, but it is Kiein, playwright; Justus Miles Forman still believed in the diplomatic circles novelist; Elbert Hubbard, and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. Alan Seeger is thus far the best known American who died in the trenches. An American boy fired with the spirit of the ailled cause he enlisted with the Canadian forces front on Nov. 14, 1914, at the age of and found his death "over there," His 82. He was inspecting the troops when case is similar to that of Rupert Brooks. Both of them discovered powers of lit erary expression of which they had before been but dimly aware.

This ends the list of the most conparticipation in the war, but the last An equally patriotic figure in the three years have seen numerous other eaders in their respective fields par They have included Profesor
